

Copyrights & Trademark

All of the downloadable materials (presentations, papers, and calculators) on this website are protected by copyright. Authors contributing to this site have an expectation that those who use their material will respect the copyright. In the event that it is desired to use the material in an expanded way, such as for a training course, please contact the author for permission.

The definitions, measures, and formulas, depicted in Tables 1 and 2 on the es terminology page, are intended to be in the public domain, as is the Concept Description.

Below is the trademark associated with Earned Schedule (ES). The ES logo symbol is not restrictive to the use or implementation of the ES methods. The symbol is meant as identification of this website as the official site for aggregating ES news and information. The TM symbol is used as a mark on presentations to identify that the information is an official ES product approved for release and dissemination.

